Please Help Conor!

Conor is a seventeen-year-old Bourne High School Senior who aspires to become a Doctor of Oncology. He is so full of life that his mere presence lights up a room! Conor was enjoying his senior year of high school, earning a 4.18 grade point average, and making plans for college when his life changed overnight. Literally.

The morning of October 16, 2010, Conor woke to find curious bruising on his shoulder and chest, prompting a visit to his doctor. After a series of tests, Conor and his family received the devastating news that he is suffering from a severe case of Aplastic Anemia. For reasons unknown, the stem cells within his bone marrow are not reproducing enough red, white, and platelet cells for Conor to maintain his health. To make matters worse, because the number of these cells has dropped so low, his body has identified them as invasive enemies. In short, Conor's immune system is attacking itself.

Conor has been receiving multiple blood transfusions, as well as an immune-suppression treatment that doctor's hope will keep his body from rejecting the few cells his body is able to produce. There is only one real "cure" for this form of Aplastic Anemia - a marrow transplant. As his only sibling is not a marrow match, Conor must find a donor through the "Be the Match Registry."
